Jessica Tripp

Director of Risk Management,
RangeWater Real Estate

I am so thankful for the fateful day when I spoke with my student advisor at the University of Georgia that explained all of the immense opportunities the property management industry had for me. My property management and housing classes helped lay the foundation for me to find my genius zone in property management. I began as a Leasing Consultant and was promoted to Property Manager within 2 years. Since then, I have had several Corporate Office roles where I have gained more knowledge about the innerworkings of property management to see the "BIG" picture. I love helping others find their niche in this wonderful industry and serving as their mentor."
